

Synopsis: Second Time Around

Winds of Destiny:

Sitting alone in a bar on her 40th birthday was not something Katherine Armand had ever planned to do. With her marriage over, better to concentrate on her career as a top-notch negotiator for her law firm. A big-shot developer from Dallas was flying down to the coast to discuss building a resort—a deal she could handle as easily as sailing in gentle Gulf waters.

Except the developer sent his right-hand man to broker the deal—and Katherine hadn't planned to bargain with Michael Whitfield, the man who'd broken her heart fifteen years ago.

